DAILY ACTIVITIES (choose 1 of 4 Friday and Sunday)

Tent Rocks Tour- Join us for a beautiful slot canyon hike through the unique geological area known as Kash-Katuwe Tent Rocks. Tent Rocks is an area that features large, cone-shaped rocks hugging the steep cliffs of Peralta Canyon. These formations were originally created by powerful dual forces of volcanism and erosion - which have built up, reshaped and then torn down this landscape over time. Most of the trail is on gradual sloping incline through a slot canyon that is an invigorating but not strenuous walk. A steep climb to the top of the mesa is available at the end of the trail for those interested in a challenge and a spectacular view. Please bring layered clothing, a sun blocking hat, good walking shoes and sunscreen. Includes transportation, entrance, tour, and lunch at a local restaurant.

Bandelier National Monument Tour - Travel to Bandelier National Monument where you'll descend into a canyon filled with the ruins of the Anasazi Indians, colloquially "the Ancient Ones." Located on the Pajarito Plateau of the Jemez Mountains, Bandelier was the home of the Anasazi from the eleventh to fourteenth centuries. Excavated over 90 years ago, these ruins were once home to over 200 people, ancestors of today's Pueblo Indians. You may walk along easy paths past the remains of ancient Pueblo dwellings to the cliff dwellings where you can climb ladders to peer inside. Includes guide, transportation, entrance, tour, and lunch at a local restaurant.

White Water Rafting - One of America's most popular adventures, whitewater rafting is becoming a tradition for visitors to Northern New Mexico. All levels of rafters, from the novice to the expert will enjoy this adventure along the Rio Grande. Along the valley floor, the rafters will experience spectacular scenery, with a full range of whitewater on the "Racecourse" south of Taos. Due to safety regulations, no one under the age of seven years old or in excess of 230 pounds will be permitted to participate in this event. Waterproof suits and helmets can be provided upon request. Lunch provided.

Cooking Class with Lunch - Master the flavors of the real Southwest with a cooking class reflecting the unique cultural mix of Santa Fe. The classes are taught by some of the best chefs in Santa Fe, and are not only entertaining and educational, but delicious too. Includes escort to class (walking), recipes, instruction and lunch.

EVENING ACTIVITIES & DINING

Canyon Road "Crawl" - Friday, May 3

For nearly a century, artists and art lovers have flocked to Canyon Road, Santa Fe's art gallery district. On Canyon Road you'll find more than 100 art galleries and studios, unique specialty shops, world class restaurants, and the historic adobe architecture that gives Santa Fe its legendary southwestern charm.

The Compound - Friday May 3

The Compound Restaurant has a heritage rich in history and regional influences. A recognized leader in Southwestern cuisine, Chef Mark Kiffin has chosen to create and focus his menu around the true regional ingredients brought to the Southwest United States by the Spaniards. The first Spanish settlers brought many food items that were not indigenous to the region such as cattle and white. As Santa Fe was at the end of the 1500-mile Camino Real from Mexico City, its Plaza eventually became the trading center where cattle were traded and a new variety of seeds were sold for harvest. It is from these New World influences, along with the influences of the Mediterranean, that Kiffin has created his dishes as Contemporary American Cuisine.

Chimayo Tour - Saturday, May 4

Enjoy an evening drive through the beautiful sandstone formations into the lush Chimayo Valley. The tour will take you north of Santa Fe on the "High Road" passing through several small 18th and 19th century communities before arriving and the village of Chimayo, located in a beautiful valley in the foothills of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains. The tour will have a stop at the charming Santuario de Chimayo, the most important Catholic pilgrimage site in the Southwest. Next stop will be the Centinela Fine Arts to view spectacular Spanish-style weavings, that preserve the old techniques of weaving. This stop is a privilege because the Centinela has some of the finest weavings in the area, yet is not generally known to tourists.

Rancho de Chimayo Restaurant - Saturday, May 4

Nestled in the mountains of Northern New Mexico is the small village of Chimayo. Chimayo is the Tewa Indian description for the red "flaking stone" found in the surrounding hills. Rancho de Chimayo restaurant is one of the most visited dining establishments in the world and is continually listed as a top 100 restaurant establishment in the United States. This century old adobe home with white washed walls, cozy dining rooms and lush terraced patios has become one of New Mexico's more popular places to dine. Rancho de Chimayo is a James Beard rated restaurant.
